COURT SLAPS 'NO-GO' ASBO BAN ON YOBS

TWO teenagers have been hit with ASBOs after embarking on a year-long campaign of hell-raising and harassment in their local community.

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Rory Brytz (17), of Tany's Dell, Harlow, and a 16-year-old youth who cannot be named for legal reasons, were both given anti-social behaviour orders following a two-hour hearing at Harlow Court on Friday.

Magistrates came to their decision after hearing the youths had subjected local residents to an "extreme level" of anti-social behaviour over the past year.

Brytz, who shortly celebrates his eighteenth birthday, is now forbidden from entering the area bordered by First Avenue, Mistley Road, Mowbray Road, Howard Way, Minchen Road and Mardyke Road – encompassing The Stow, Great Plumtree, Dovehouse Croft and Orchard Croft – for a period of two years.

He is also prohibited from using or encouraging others to use foul, abusive, insulting, threatening or intimidating language or behaviour in any public place within the Harlow district for the same period of time.

The 16-year-old was handed an interim ASBO with the same conditions, pending the outcome of a second hearing scheduled to take place on November 13.

If either youth breaks any of the conditions in the ASBOs they run the risk of being arrested and could face a custodial term.

Police and council officers visited The Stow on Monday to hand out leaflets to shopkeepers and residents making them aware of the conditions of Brytz's ASBO and how they can report any breach of the order.

Cottage owner's blaze heartbreak

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE owner of a 300-year-old thatched cottage has spoken of his horror as he watched his home consumed by fire.

Brian Lawrence (67) was working on a flat roof at the back of the building using a felting torch when it set fire to a piece of straw which then blew onto the thatch and started the inferno.

He tried in vain to douse the flames with a hose before calling the fire brigade. Six appliances attended the scene but crews were unable to stop the blaze spreading and eventually destroying the cottage.

Mr Lawrence, who has lived in the property in Foster Street, Harlow, since 1985, said: "I was always working on the house and now I will have nothing to do. I loved the place. Like the house, I'm totally gutted."

GUTTED: The remains of the cottage which was destroyed after a stray piece of burning straw set fire to the thatched roof

The fire broke out shortly before 4.50pm on Monday, just as Mr Lawrence was about to pack up for the day. Firefighters from Harlow, Old Harlow, Epping, Loughton and Waltham Abbey attended the scene.

Crews began a salvage operation to rescue what they could from the building and cut a break in the roof to prevent the fire spreading to adjoining homes. They finally got the flames under control at 10.30pm and spent the rest of the night turning over the straw and damping down before the fire was eventually put out.

Fire officers visited the scene Tuesday morning along with insurance officials and a loss adjustor.

"At one point there were 12 fire engines here, it was like a training exercise," said Mr Lawrence.

"You would think they would have been able to put it out but they couldn't. I kept seeing more and more flames.

"Everybody keeps saying I'm lucky I wasn't injured but I don't feel like that at the moment. I might not be damaged on the outside but I am up here."

The fire service has confirmed it is not treating the blaze as suspicious.

Divisional officer Ray Skinner said: "Crews did an excellent job at this incident and it is thanks to their hard work and dedication that the fire was contained to the end property.

"Firefighters worked hard all through the night and once we had cut the break it was vital that work continued to prevent the fire spreading."

Cancer jabs halted temporarily to offer parents safety reassurance

HEALTH chiefs in Harlow temporarily suspended a cervical cancer vaccination programme this week following the tragic death of a 14-year-old girl.

NHS West Essex decided to postpone injections for three days in order to write to the parents of girls due to be immunised, giving them more information about the vaccination.

The teenager died on Monday after being given the jab at school in Coventry. It was reported yesterday (Wednesday) that she has a "serious underlying medical condition" and it was most unlikely the HPV jab caused her death.

Alison Cowie, NHS West Essex's director of public health, said: "The HPV vaccine has a strong safety record. It has passed the rigorous safety testing needed for it to be used in the UK and other European countries.

"We are writing to those parents of young girls that were due to get the vaccine this week in order to reassure them of this."

A routine programme of vaccinating 12 and 13-year-old girls started last Sept-ember across the UK using the Cervarix vaccine which protects against two cancer-causing viruses.

On Tuesday NHS West Essex stressed its move to postpone jabs was purely to offer reassurance to parents and said it does not hold stocks of the same batch of the vaccine which is under scrutiny. The programme is due to resume tomorrow (Friday).

The Department of Health is advising parents or young people who are worried about the safety of any vaccine to speak to a GP or visit www.immunisation.nhs.uk for background information about the vaccination programme.

Sergeant Lewis Basford, the area's neighbourhood specialist officer, said Essex Police and Harlow Council had exhausted all possible measures to resolve the problems and felt ASBOs were the only solution.

"Over the past 12 months we have used two dispersal orders around The Stow which have only relieved the issues for the community for a short period of time," he said

"This application should be noted by the community that Essex Police and Harlow Community Safety Enforcement Team will not tolerate this disruption of the lives of our local residents and business retailers."

Councillor Joel Charles, vice-chairman of the council's environment and community committee, added: "Mr Brytz has consistently caused a large amount of distress to people living in The Stow area and although we never take this action lightly, we welcome the order imposed by the court.

"ASBOs are usually issued as a last resort because of their lasting impact on individuals' lives. Where possible, the council will always explore other methods to control anti-social behaviour in the first instance."

Family's disco fundraiser for cancer charity

By SOPHIE WARNER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MEMORIES of a young boy who died from a rare form of bone cancer will shine a little brighter at a Hallowe'en-themed fundraiser organised by his family.

Adam Thomas lost his battle to osteosarcoma in 1996 when he was just eight-years-old.

His death left his family devastated but, 13 years on, Adam's mum Tina (42) is taking a positive step on what would have been his 21st birthday by celebrating the occasion with a charity disco.

The evening will raise funds for the Skeletal Cancer Action Trust.

Tina, of Bernard Road, Sawbridgeworth, said: "The charity is so good because it is so specific to what Adam had.

"It is not as well known as many other cancers and we would like to raise awareness. It is quite a rare cancer and does not affect that many people."

Osteosarcoma usually affects children under the age of 15. Around 300 youngsters die from the disease each year.

The fun-packed evening on October 17 will include a fancy dress costume competition, a raffle and live music as well as food and drink. Staff from Paradise Wildlife Park at Broxbourne will also be taking along some of their charges.

It will not be the first time Tina has organised a birthday celebration in memory of her son. A similar event was held in 2006 to commemorate Adam's 18th and raised £3,600. This year's target is £4,000.

Tickets for the disco, which will be held at Sawbridgeworth Memorial Hall, cost £10 for adults and £5 for children and are available by contacting Tina on either (01279) 412200 or (07824) 398530 or by sending an email to tina.thomas94@googlemail.com.

Old school friends reunited

FORMER pupils of Latton Bush School had the chance to reminisce about the good old days at a 50th anniversary reunion party.

The classes of 1958-1986 kicked off the celebration with drinks at The Chequers pub, in Commonside Road, Harlow, before making their way to the Latton Bush Centre, in Southern Way, for a disco.

More than 300 former pupils of the school, which closed in the 1980s, attended the celebration.

Orgainser Val Steward said: "We had people from England, Denmark, Spain, France, South Africa and Abu Dhabi. Our furthest travelled from California.

"At 8.30pm the school's first boy band – The Zooids – came on stage. We managed to find three of the original members thanks to an appeal in the Star."

Food and prizes for the night were donated by Framers Corner, Sport & Screen Legends and Tesco. Michelle at 1st Class Displays supplied the balloons.

Mrs Steward added: "The event was a huge success and people are already asking me when the next one is!"

Bus ambassadors

BUS company Arriva the Shires and Essex is appealing for dedicated bus-users in Harlow to apply to become official ambassadors.

Arriva, which operates a number of routes in and around the town, is asking residents to volunteer their opinions and experiences of Arriva Buses and bus travel in general.

Successful applicants will have their own profile on a dedicated section of the firm's website and receive a free four-week bus ticket.

Anyone interested can log on to www.arrivabus.co.uk/ambassadors for more details.

Celebrate culture

RESIDENTS will have the chance to celebrate Harlow's cultural diversity and vibrancy during Black History month.

Events will be taking place throughout October to recognise the work of the black community, its heritage and arts.

Many local community groups, supported by Harlow Council, are putting on a range of events including a concert by UK soul sensation Mica Paris at Harlow Playhouse, a food fair celebrating ethnic cuisine, African and Caribbean traditional games and numerous dance and drama performances.

Harlow Council chairwoman Edna Stevens will officially open the celebrations on Saturday by cutting a ribbon at the multi-cultural resource fair at St Paul's Church.

"The council has supported local community groups to organise a series of events that celebrates the culture, history and achievements of black and ethnic minority communities," she said.

"Many of the events are free or low cost and there's something for everyone to take part in."

For a full round-up of events visit www.harlow.gov.uk/Default.aspx.

PCT report online

NHS West Essex has published its latest annual report and for the first time it is available on the internet.

The 64-page document contains information about the achievements of the PCT over the past year, as well as detailing its goals for the next five years.

Chief executive Aidan Thomas said: "The introduction of an e-version of the annual report is a great step forward. Not only does it save money on printing costs but allows the report to be read by a much wider audience."

He added: "We hope people will use this facility and pass on the link information to anyone they know who has an interest in local healthcare and the NHS in West Essex."

The e-version is available by clicking on the annual report link on the NHS West Essex home page at www.westessexpct.nhs.uk.

'Gun' man driven to distraction by pigeons

ARMED police were sent to a Harlow street at 5am after receiving reports that a barefoot gunman had been seen in the area, a court heard.

But when they arrived they found 51-year-old Peter Banash brandishing an imitation firearm after been driven out of his mind by the constant noise made by pigeons.

Banash, of Holly Field, Harlow, appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday to plead guilty to possessing a prohibited imitation firearm on June 5 this year.

He was made the subject of a 12-month community order and ordered to undergo alcohol and mental health treatment.

Imposing the orders, Judge David Turner told him: "Don't be foolish to have any weapons on you or in your home.

"Barefoot in the street near your home, you were frightening members of the public. You had already rang police yourself to say you were intending to do serious things.

"Although the weapon was not inherently dangerous, it was still prohibited and you were doing something very, very frightening."

The judge noted that Banash had apologised for the incident and accepted he behaved in an inappropriate way. He also said there was no evidence to suggest Banash presented any danger.

Having read psychiatric reports describing Banash's problems with anxiety and depression, Judge Turner warned him "not to use threats or violence" in future.

Neil Fitzgibbon, representing Banash, said in mitigation his client had not slept for 72 hours and the cooing noise made by the pigeons had driven him to distraction.

Widow upset by the clearance of memorial items

GRIEVING relatives visiting a woodland remembrance garden were left distraught after it was cleared of all memorial items.

The area at Harlow's Parndon Wood Cemetery and Crematorium was being prepared for maintenance work which started this week.

As part of the preparations all markers were taken away, leaving people unable to locate the resting places of their loved ones.

Treasured items and photographs left as memorials to the deceased were also removed, some of which are still missing.

The work is said to have been carried out without warning and has been branded disrespectful.

Sharon Trayler, whose father's ashes were buried in the garden in August, said: "My mum was deeply upset when she visited my dad on Monday morning, only to find the whole ground had been turned over and all things that had been placed where my dad was resting removed.

"What is so upsetting is that there had been no prior notice of what they had planned for the grounds. There was only a notice that morning.

"How disrespectful to all those who have their dear ones laid to rest.

"On the morning there was an elderly woman desperately trying to find the spot where her husband was laid, with only a picture to try and remember the place. It was very distressing.

"I understand they are trying to make the area look nicer but it's the lack of thought for the people; not giving them the time to move the things they had placed or to try and mark the spot.

"I only hope that the authority can give some sort of apology to all those that have been left totally distraught by these uncaring actions."

It is not known how many families have been affected by the work but it is thought many who live outside the area and only visit on special occasions have not been told.

This week Joel Charles, vice-chairman of Harlow Council's environment and community committee, said the council would not deliberately cause distress to relatives but added that families were not allowed to reserve certain areas of the woodland as their own.

"Occasionally we will need to carry out essential maintenance or landscaping work and we will clear items which are then kept at the cemetery where they can be collected by the families," he added.

Firefighters ready to protest at cutbacks

FIREFIGHTERS in Harlow will today (Thursday) stage a protest against planned cuts to frontline services.

Crews will line up outside the fire station in Fourth Avenue to demonstrate their opposition to plans by the Essex County Fire & Rescue Service to downgrade the way specialist emergency appliances are crewed. These are due to come into force today.

The cash-strapped authority claims it needs to make a number of efficiency savings in the wake of the recession, but the Fire Brigades Union claims cutbacks could be made elsewhere in the service without compromising the frontline service.

Firefighters have been engaged in industrial action since August.

The union has warned that a full-blown strike could be on the cards should talks to resolve the dispute fail.

Knife attack victim still recovering in hospital

DETECTIVES investigating a triple stabbing in Harlow which left a teenage girl fighting for her life have this week repeated their appeal for information.

The 16-year-old is still recovering in hospital after she and two 15-year-old girls were assaulted a week last Saturday (September 19).

The incident happened at 10.30pm on the steps leading down from Fourth Avenue to Sainsbury's car park.

All the victims come from the Harlow area.

The 15-year-olds were released after treatment while the 16-year-old remains in a serious but stable condition.

Eight girls aged 14-18 from Hertfordshire and North London were arrested in connection with this stabbings. Seven were released on police bail until January 25 pending further inquiries while the eighth was released without charge.

Investigating officer, Detective Sergeant Jamie Gingell said: "We want to hear from anyone who was in the area at the time and saw what happened at the scene of the incident."

Anyone who can help should call Harlow CID on 0300 333 4444.

Government should pay back last year's 'rent tax' windfall

SIR, In the great debate over rent reductions, it is important to remember the council has made no decision. We are still negotiating with the Government.

Had we just rolled over and taken another £420,000 loss in subsidy and cuts in service, tenants would quite rightly complain.

One of the hidden impacts of the banking crisis last year was that the council lost £420,000 in subsidy because the Government did not adjust the interest rates used in the calculations – the LIBID issue.

We took on the Government and got them to change the rules for this year, but they made no adjustment for last year. Bill Rammell was very supportive in getting these rules changed, but not for last year.

Tenants already pay a third of their rent (over £13.5m a year) to the Government in the heinous rent tax. Last year it took another £420,000 by not adjusting the interest rates; it was money they were not expecting.

Is it too unreasonable to ask for it back so we can help our tenants and maintain services?

Councillor Simon Carter
Mark Hall Moors, Harlow

One-year offer only

SIR, Anything to do with housing rents and subsidies is complex and made more so by the half-truths peddled by Labour in letters to the Press and at meetings.

Having retained my interest in housing since leaving the council, I have kept up to date at various tenants meetings. I was the tenants' representative at the housing meeting where the rents were set for this year. I have not been made aware of any other funds available to the council's rent account, as has been suggested by others.

The council did not increase rents by more than the Government guideline. There is no point; the Government just claws it back in less subsidy.

Any Government minister worth their salt would have made their decision to reduce rents before they were agreed and not a month after all the letters had gone to tenants. And if the council had taken the money, what part of the housing service could we afford to lose? Not having your boiler repaired? No-one to answer the telephone and deal with queries? Flats not cleaned so often or the grass cut less frequently?

Housing subsidy has been under review by the Government for more than a year. The options proposed so far have a major impact on the council's rent account for the next year so it needs to keep reserves to cope with any change that might come . . . when the Government eventually makes its mind up.

Bill Rammell has said the Government's offer was for one year only, so what do the council and tenants do next year? The recession will not be over, there will be no more money from Goverment, more jobs will go and homelessness will increase.

And still the offer to reduce rent increases is for one year only.

Jane Steer
Orchard Croft, Harlow

Tories cost us more

SIR, Conservative councillor Lee Dangerfield's letter (Star, September 17) attempts to confuse the issue of Harlow Council's failure to apply the rent increase reduction to council tenants.

The fact is that because the Tories increased rents by more than Government guidelines, the reimbursement from central government would only reimburse to the level of the guidelines. Other councils have accepted this.

An example of the excessive level of the rent increase the Tories demanded is the rent for a one-bedroom flat in Brockles Mead, which rose by £70.20 per month, including service charge increases, more than wiping out the pension increase of this year.

Proof, if it were needed, that Tories cost you more and give you less.

Window shopping

SIR, I see Harlow Council has received £52,000 to tackle the effects of the recession in the town's shopping areas.

Surely anyone with a bit of common sense would use to money to lower the shop rents, thus encouraging new business. But no, it has increassed them.

Will it now apply for another grant to decorate the windows of the extra empty shops this will create? At this rate we will have a town centre created for window shopping only. Think of the money the shoppers will save.

If I was contemplating opening a shop I would want the surrounding shops bringing trade to the centre. The pretty pictures will not make a jot of difference. They will fool no one over the age of three.

Whoever thought of this idea is probably the same person who spent £30,000 putting parking machines in and then finding it was not a viable proposition.

Victims of abuse

SIR, I was shocked, upset and angry to read in our national daily newsapers of the deaths of Fiona Pilkington and her disabled daughter Francesca.

After suffering verbal and physical abuse form packs of feral youths for 12 years, it seems Fiona took both her own life and that of her disabled daughter.

What a terrible indictment of today's society that this poor woman felt that she and her daughter were better off dead.

The most sickening thing about this sorry incident is that the perpetrators of these crimes – because that's what they are – are, I am sure, walking round with a smirk on their faces thinking that they have done something clever.

You don't have to be a genius to work out why this particular bunch of low-lives picked on Fiona and her family. It is yet another case of we are all equal but some of us are more equal than others.

Having been the victim of both verbal – including racist – and physical abuse for the past 12 years, I can well understand how Fiona must have felt.

I was most interested to read the remarks made by Leicestershire police when Fiona rang them on many occasions to complain that she was being terrorised in her own home: that no officers were available, it was a matter for the council, a crime had not taken place and that she was overreacting.

All of the above have also been said to me so they must be standard excuses.

Bare-faced cheek

SIR, I wonder if your readers have heard of the word 'chutzpah'? It is an old Yiddish word for bare-faced cheek and is usually used to describe someone's actions in the face of difficulty.

I thought of this expression when I read about the high unemployment levels in Harlow. In essence, a report funded by the East of England Development Agency shows that Harlow has suffered one of the highest unemployment rises in the East of England.

The town has had a 2.5 per cent increase in unemployment claims. It has suffered the worst of of the Government's mishandling of the economy: repossessions are high, taxes are high and now we have the dreadful unemployment figures.

So where does chutzpah come in? Well, astonishingly MP Bill Rammell seeks to blame the ever-increasing unemployment on the Conservatives, despite his party having been in power since 1997. He claims the Conservatives oppose a £5bn package to help the unemployed. I am mystified by this claim.

The truth is rather different. People simply don't believe Labour's dishonest scaremongering about what the Conservatives will do. Far from being inactive on unemployment, we have been calling on the Government for years to introduce welfare reform, to develop a network of back-to-work centres that can offer people personalised support, advice and training to help them back into employment.

During this recession Conservatives have led the way on policies to respond to the unemployment crisis such as subsidies to employers to help create new jobs and encourage companies to take on the unemployed, which Labour belatedly took up.

The reality is that Labour's reckless approach to the public finances means they will be raising taxes on jobs just as the economy will be trying to recover. It is time for Labour and its MPs to get real and face up to their responsibilities. Rather than trying to blame the Conservatives for everything, they should apologise to the electorate for the economic mess we are all in after 12 years of Labour rule.

Scrap bins plan

SIR, Over the past few months we have had little, if any, consultation about the new wheelie bins.

Some of my neighbours have nowhere to put these new bins. I can only imagine they will be pulled about into the street and some people will lose them if they are not careful.

It is outrageous to have these bins imposed when we have already got a recycling policy. What more can an individual household recycle?

Every week most households do their bit for the environment, yet the council is going to scrap a perfectly good scheme at untold cost for a different and unpopular scheme. Why?

Bravery of boy (9) who called police as pair beat mum

A NINE-year-old boy who witnessed his mother being brutally attacked in the street by two thugs has been rewarded £50 by a judge for telephoning police to report the incident as it happened.

The award to the brave youngster – whose identity cannot be revealed as a result of a court order – was made after defendants Kenny Brown and Natalie Thompson, both of Foldcroft, Harlow, were sentenced for the horrific assault.

Brown (25), who pleaded not guilty to causing the boy's mother actual bodily harm, was given a two-year jail term.

Thompson (27), his pregnant girlfriend, was given a 12-month prison sentence suspended for two years after she pleaded guilty to the same charge. She was also made the subject of a two-year supervision requirement and orderd to complete 100 hours of community work.

Chelmsford Crown Court heard on Thursday there had been problems between the couple and the victim which came to a head on July 6 last year when she was dragged from her car by Brown.

Witnesses said they saw Brown hold the victim by her hair, turn her head and punch her before Thompson pulled her to the ground and continued to hit her.

She suffered bruises to her body, a cut lip and lost some of her hair. Her young son was forced to watch the attack from the passenger seat of the car.

He told the court he saw Brown get a pole from the boot of his car and use it to strike his mother several times. He said Brown then goaded on his partner as she joined in the attack.

The boy told the court he called 999 from a mobile phone as he watched in horror, adding: "I shouted to get off and stop hurting her."

Passing sentence on the pair, Judge Christopher Ball told Brown: "You have not shown any sign of remorse. You have put that young boy through the ordeal of having to give evidence, let alone watching his mother being beaten up.

"It was two on one, with a weapon. You will get the heaviest sentence that the court can pass."

A passing motorist – Melanie Edwards from Suffolk – was also commended for her actions by the judge and awarded £300 after the court heard she stopped to help the victim following the attack.

Reward is offered in search for stolen bird

A REWARD is being offered for information leading to the safe return of a cockatoo stolen from Pets' Corner.

Topsy has been missing from the Town Park attraction for four weeks.

CCTV footage showed two men and a pregnant woman breaking into the aviary and taking Topsy.

This week Harlow Council said it would pay an undisclosed cash reward to anyone who provides information which leads to the return of the popular bird.

"It's an unusual step to take to offer a reward but this is an unusual crime," said council leader Andrew Johnson.

"Topsy is much loved by the families and schools that visit Pets' Corner and we are very keen to have her back. Many people have been upset by her loss."

Topsy, who is pure white with a lemony crest on her head and a ring on her right foot, was taken from her cage at about 12.45pm on September 3.

Some people have been so angered by the theft that they have set up a Facebook group dedicated to finding her.

Anyone with information about the theft of Topsy should contact Essex Police on 0300 333 4444 or Pets' Corner on (01279) 422790.

Murder accused fails in bail bid

A WOMAN accused of murdering her husband has failed in an attempt to be granted bail.

Susan Lowe (55), of Long Ley, Harlow, is being held in custody charged with killing her husband Ronald (43) at their home on August 30.

At Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday her legal representatives made an application for her to be released on bail pending her trial, but the application was refused.

13 taken to hospital after late-night brawl

AN investigation has been launched after a mass brawl outside two nightclubs resulted in 13 people being taken to hospital.

Police were called to Epping High Street shortly before 2.30am on Saturday after reports of a disturbance outside Club 195, pictured above, and the Edge.

Officers say two people were taken to hospital with serious injuries and 11 others with lacerations and wounds caused by a variety of weapons.

The area was cordoned off throughout Saturday while forensic teams carried out an examination of the area. Police also carried out inquiries to establish the cause of the fracas.

Epping Town Council clerk Bob Whittome said the council had concerns about the late night licensing of premises in the town but said it was unable to make changes as it no longer has a role in the licensing process.

"There are now several different clubs in the town that appear to attract large numbers of people from outside Epping," he added. "It is very unsettling for the residents who don't like the fact they cannot walk though the town after a certain time.

"I suspect the town council will want to express concern about this and will want to act as early as it can to be a centre for local people to make their views known."

A 46-year-old Harlow man arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm has been released on police bail until December 21 pending further inquiries.

Hospital handed £6.5k fine for latex blunder

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PRINCESS Alexandra Hospital has been slapped with a hefty fine after failing to warn staff about the risks of latex.

The PAH NHS Trust was fined £6,500 and ordered to pay £4,500 in costs after pleading guilty to two health and safety breaches at Harlow Magistrates Court.

Inspectors from the Health and Safety Executive visited the hospital in November 2007 and found it was not correctly managing the risk of staff becoming sensitised to the rubber, mainly from latex gloves.

They served two improvement notices which required management to carry out a suitable and sufficient risk assessment of the use of latex and control any risks identified.

But at last week's court hearing the hospital was said to have needed two extensions and significant support from the HSE before it complied with the first notice in May 2008 and had failed to comply with the second notice at all.

Inspectors also discovered a member of staff had been diagnosed as having latex-linked occupational dermatitis but the incident was not reported.

HSE Inspector Matthew Tackling said: "As this case demonstrates, employers need to realise the importance of complying with improvement notices as they can be prosecuted for not carrying out the required work within the specified timescale.

"Reporting cases of occupational dermatitis is a legal requirement. Employers should ensure they know which substances can cause dermatitis in their workplace, how to recognise the symptoms, how to prevent it occurring and the need to report cases if they develop."

A spokesman for PAH NHS Trust said the incident was regrettable, adding: "The trust was slow in responding to HSE input and advice on controlling latex products and reporting related dermatitis.

"Accordingly, the trust accepted fault in both cases before the court and has now had robust procedures in place for over a year to ensure there is no repeat of the problems raised by the HSE."

Staff have been reminded that they should adhere to published protocols at all times in relation to the use of latex, and alternatives to latex products have been made available as the primary source of hand protection and infection control.

"We are pleased to acknowledge that the trust has addressed the issues notified by the HSE and welcome the comments made by the court," added the spokesman.

Animal-mad vicar to hold pets service

ALL creatures great and small are invited to spend the afternoon in the company of God this Sunday at their very own church service.

For the first time in the history of St Mary-at-Latton Church – which is thought to date back to the Saxon era – animals of all shapes and sizes will be welcomed to receive the Lord's blessing.

The only condition is that they must be kept on a lead or in carriers or cages.

Reverend Lynn Hurry, pictured above, who keeps cats, dogs, rats and chickens, said: "I'm animal crackers myself so it will come as no great surprise to my congregation that I've decided to hold a special service for pets.

"The church is a small one so we recommend larger animals such as horses, camels and elephants wait outside for their blessing!"

The service will begin at 4pm. For more information call (01279) 424005.

Step up shed security to keep the burglars at bay

SHED and garage owners are being urged to make sure their lock-ups are properly secured as police launch a crackdown on thefts during the winter.

The warning comes in a week when police received 19 reports of garage break-ins and four reports of shed burglaries in the Harlow area.

Crime reduction officer Graham Anthony said: "You should ensure that your shed or garage doors are fitted with a good quality lock such as a closed shackle padlock which is difficult to force and also acts as a deterrent.."

Other security measures include motion sensitive lighting units which can be a useful deterrent against burglars.

"People often refer to the contents of sheds as mainly a lot of old rubbish but experience has taught us that petty thieves will rummage through this 'rubbish' for things they can sell locally, on the internet or through boot sales," said Mr Anthony.

"And the upset caused by a burglary is often out of all proportion to the monetary loss."

He also urged people to always lock away bikes, tools, garden furniture and any other valuables used in gardens during the day.

"At this time of year, when residents begin storing gardening equipment in readiness for the winter, they need to be looking at their garage and shed security the same way as they would for their home."

Teens assaulted

POLICE are continuing to investigate the circumstances surrounding an assault on two teenage girls in Harlow.

The pair, aged 15 and 16, were attacked in playing fields opposite Mark Hall School at about 10pm on Friday, September 4.

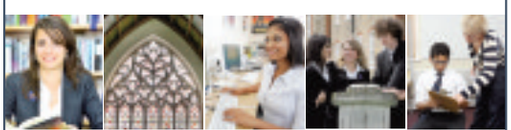

An 18-year-old man has been arrested and charged with assault and criminal damage to property.

Anyone with information about the incident should call PC Gary Brown on 0300 333 4444.

Minister's praise over hospital waiting times

STAFF at Princess Alexandra Hospital have been given a pat on the back by junior health minister Phil Hope for driving down patient waiting times.

Mr Hope, accompanied by Harlow MP Bill Rammell, met PAH NHS Trust chief executive Chris Pocklington during a visit to the town.

He was told waiting times were the lowest for 40 years, resulting in 92 per cent of patients receiving treatment within 18 weeks of being referred by their GP.

Mr Hope also met representatives of the Harlow branch of the Alzheimer's Society to guage reaction to proposals outlined in the Government's new Care And Support Green Paper, which aims to end the postcode lottery of UK care services.

Afterwards, Mr Rammell said: "When I became MP for Harlow problems with the health service were one of the biggest issues raised with me. Now my constituents only raise issues like this in exceptional circumstances."

Ex-lawyer facing wrath of McCanns

A FORMER solicitor is at the centre of a legal battle with the parents of missing toddler Madeleine McCann over a website which claims their daughter is dead and they are in some way responsible.

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Tony Bennett, of Chippingfield, Old Harlow, is consulting lawyers after libel experts representing Kate and Gerry McCann demanded the Madeleine Foundation website he helped to set up is shut down immediately.

Law firm Carter-Ruck is also seeking to stop publication of a 64-page book written by Mr Bennett which questions the couple's version of events on the night their daughter went missing from a Portuguese holiday apartment and wants all copies handed over, along with a leaflet summarising the book's allegations.

The McCanns' spokesman, Clarence Mitchell, told reporters: "Kate and Gerry have consistently made it clear they will not dignify the actions of the so-called Madeleine Foundation with any comment whatsoever.

"However, Carter-Ruck's position is now clear and it is in the hands of Kate and Gerry's defamation lawyers."

Madeleine was nearly four-years-old when she disappeared from the family's holiday apartment in May 2007 while her parents dined with friends as a nearby tapas bar.

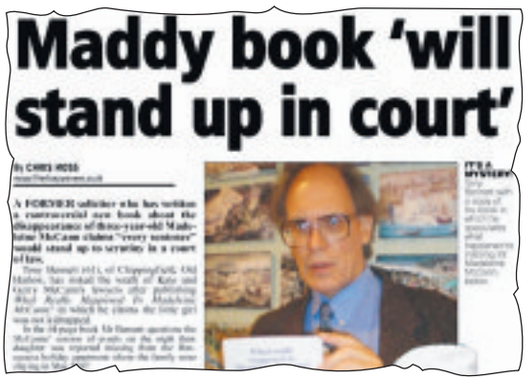

She has never been found despite a high-profile campaign highlighting her disappearance.

Last year Mr and Mrs McCann won damages from Express Newspapers for publishing articles alleging the couple were responsible for the death of their daughter.

Mr Bennett helped set up the MadeleineFoundation.org in January 2008. The following December he published his book entitled What Really Happened to Madeleine McCann?

Speaking this week, Mr Bennett said he was in the process of taking legal advice and insisted allegations made on the website and in the book were fair comment.

He added that the foundation had received a letter from the McCanns representatives regarding allegations made on the website last year but nobody ever responded to a request to discuss their complaints.

Developer offers deposit boost to first-time buyers

A PROPERTY developer is giving first time buyers in Harlow a hand to climb on the housing ladder with a five per cent deposit scheme.

Barratt is offering the deal in a bid to boost sales at its Gateway site in Fifth Avenue site and help would-be homeowners during the recession.

The average deposit required by mortgage lenders is now estimated at 25 per cent of the value of a new home.

Chris Scarborough, sales director for Barratt North London, said: "The First Time Buyers Initiative is the ideal solution for first-time buyers in Harlow who might be looking to get onto the property ladder but may not have enough savings for a deposit upfront.

"With mortgage lending for first-time buyers currently less affordable, new homebuyers should look to make the most of the opportunities that have been made available by the Government."

Through FTBI, new homebuyers can purchase 100 per cent of a new home whilst only paying 50 per cent of the price upfront. The remaining 50 per cent is provided by the Government agency English Partnerships.

Buyers are given the option to purchase an additional share of the equity in their new homes at regular intervals.

First-time buyers interested in the scheme can meet representatives from the Government FTBI scheme and Barratt Homes to discuss the details at the sales suite in Fifth Avenue from 11am-4pm on Saturday.

KIDDI CARU: Arriba, arriba! Mexican Independence Day was celebrated at the nursery in Kiln Lane, Harlow, when children took part in a host of south American-themed activities.

Youngsters made nachos to take home, listened to Mexican music and took part in an arts and crafts session in which they dressed as Mexicans and decorated flags.

A nursery spokeswoman said: "They all really enjoyed themselves, especially when they made nachos."

PURFORD GREEN: Children at the junior school in Purford Green Road, Harlow, had the chance to show off their hard work to parents at an exhibition night.

Work created by pupils throughout the last school year was on show for mums and dads to look at before they had a chance to talk to teachers about their youngsters' achievements.

The annual event encourages parents to become more involved in their children's time at school. (photo: HAR0576217)

ST LUKE'S: Joining a new school can be a daunting task for any youngster but new arrivals to the Pyenest Road primary were given a warm welcome at a meet-and-greet day.

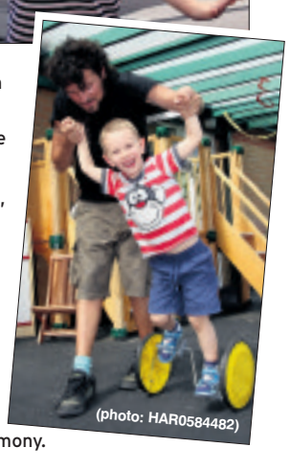

The new intake were met by teachers and current pupils before taking part in a range of ice-breaking games and activities.

A school spokeswoman said: "The idea is to give the new intake a chance to familiarise themselves with the school in a fun way to help them feel more welcome."

LEAPFROG NURSERY: Toddlers got to grips with circus skills when they took part in a clown-themed day as part of the Harlow nursery's open week.

The activity-packed week, organised specially for new pupils and their parents, featured demonstrations of juggling, magic and riding a unicycle as well as a messy play workshop, a visit from Fifi the Flowertot and a fun party day during which the nursery's pre-school children took part in a graduation ceremony.

Royal visitor is front page news

A DOG-eared copy of a Harlow firm's in-house newspaper arrived on the Nostalgia desk this week, hopefully sparking another trip down memory lane for former employees.

Regular readers of this column will be well aware of the plethora of stories about Cossor, and for good reason. In its heyday the electronics company was one of the town's largest employers, as the October 1978 edition of Cossor News proves.

The front page features a picture of a rather young looking Prince of Wales and Cossor managing director David Steadman after the Prince visited the firm during a trip to Essex.

The trip was organised by the National Economic Development Office as part of a tour of three companies in the county by Prince Charles.

The purpose of the trip was to provide HRH with information on the industry in readiness for a meeting he was due to attend the next day of a radio, radar and electronic goods industrial strategy sector working party.

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk

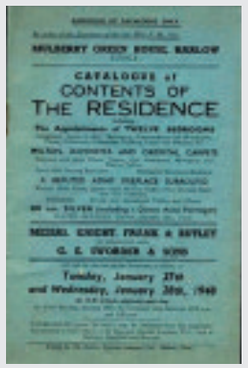

Speaking at the time, Mr Steadman said: "We are pleased and honoured to have been selected as representatives of the industry."

During the visit Prince Charles toured the main engineering and manufacturing areas and met staff. "I'm sure he found the visit both interesting and informative," Mr Steadman added.

The edition also features other news including a report that the firm had started using a satellite link to communicate with engineers working for Raytheon in America and had a team working on a new x-ray machine for heart, lung and blood circulation.

● WERE you working at Cossor at the time of the Prince's visit and would like to share your memories with our readers. If so, then contact Nostalgia, 6 West Gate, Harlow CM20 1JW or email star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Mulberry House mystery

READERS familiar with the old town will no doubt know that historic Mulberry House has been transformed into modern-day apartments.

But does anyone know the significance of these pictures which have found their way on to the Nostalgia desk?

They were sent in by a reader and depict the house and a catalogue titled Contents of The Residence. The date is January 1948.

If you can tell us what the catalogue signifies or why the pictures were taken then please get in touch.

RUBBISH CHAOS

A mass resignation by Harlow dustmen has plunged the town's refuse collection into chaos. At least 14 of the town's 25-strong crew have handed in their resignation in protest at what they have called low wages and poor conditions.

PRIVATISATION ROW

A work-to-rule and overtime ban is being threatened by the Union of Public Employees over privatisation in Essex. The new laundry at St Margaret's Hospital could be taken over as early as April 1985.

ASBESTOS IN PLAY AREA

Asbestos roofing littered a children's play area a fortnight before it was removed by council workmen in special suits. The asbestos is believed to have come from a garage roof in Fisher's Hatch and fallen off after a small fire.

CALL FOR MORE LITTER BINS

Harlow could be much a cleaner place if there were more rubbish bins in the town, it has been claimed. Residents say they would like to see more bins placed in the town centre to stop the litter problem getting out of control.

Treasure hunter hits the jackpot!

THE biggest hoard of priceless Anglo-Saxon gold and silver has been found buried in a farmer's field in Staffordshire.

It is thought the huge collection – which includes ornate jewellery, swords, helmets and items decorated with precious gem stones – has lay buried for more than 1,400 years.

Astonishingly, the enormous haul of more than 1,500 items was unearthed by Terry Herbert, pictured above, who found the treasures using his trusty 14-year-old metal detector!

Mr Herbert told reporters he believed he was destined to find the items.

"I have this phrase that I say sometimes: 'Spirits of yesteryear take me where the coins appear', but on that day I changed coins to gold," he said. "I don't know why I said it that day but I think somebody was listening and directed me to it.

"Maybe it was meant to be, maybe the gold had my name on it all along, I don't know"

Historians have described the amazing find as one of the most important in recent years and think the treasure may have belonged to a victorious Saxon warlord who could have looted the items from the field of battle.

It could take more than a year for the five kilogrammes of gold and 2.5 kilogrammes of silver to be valued.

In the meantime, the whole collection is due to go on display at the Birmingham Museum and Art Gallery later this month.

Councillor quits party in protest over policy

By CHRIS MOSS
mossc@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Liberal Democrat group on Harlow Council has been dealt a major blow this week after one its councillors resigned from the party.

Linda Pailing, who has represented the Netteswell ward since 2006, quit the Lib Dems on Tuesday, citing increasing disillusionment with several of the party's national policies as the reason.

Speaking to the Star immediately after handing in her letter of resignation, Mrs Pailing said she now intended to continue representing her constituents as an independent councillor.

But she added she was unsure as to whether she would stand for re-election when her term of office comes to an end next May.

"This is not a sudden, knee-jerk decision," she said. "I have been moving away from the party's stance nationally on several key issues and my disillusionment was compounded by Vince Cable's [Liberal Democrat shadow chancellor] poor performance at the national conference.

"However, I would like to make it clear to the residents of Netteswell ward that I intend to continue working hard on their behalf as an independent councillor and will continue to listen to their problems and try to help them as best I can.

"I will not be moving to another party and I would like to reassure the people who voted for me that my dedication to representing their interests will not change simply because I have changed the colour of my jersey."

Liberal Democrat group leader Chris Millington said he was "very disappointed" with Mrs Pailing's decision but added the party would regroup and continue to work hard in holding the town's Conservative administration to account.

LINDA PAILING

"Obviously I am very disappointed that Linda has chosen to resign from the Liberal Democrat group, especially at a time when national polls indicate the party is resurgent," he said.

"I always felt that we had worked particularly well together over the last few years, especially in making the difficult transition from administration to main opposition party on the council, and I had hoped we could continue working together for many years yet."

Mrs Pailing's resignation leaves the Liberal Democrats with eight councillors in Harlow. The Conservatives have 18 and Labour six.

Back in August the Star revealed that long-serving Liberal Democrat councillor Lorna Spenceley, who has stood as the party's Parliamentary candidate in Harlow at the past four general elections, announced she would be standing down when her term of office comes to an end in May.

TERMINUS STREET, HARLOW: Saturday, August 1

CO-OP STORE, BUSH FAIR, HARLOW: Tuesday, May 5

CCTV images of crime suspects

POLICE this week issued CCTV images of four people wanted for questioning about two separate offences in Harlow.

The two men on the left are being sought in connection with an assault in Terminus Street at about 1.30am on Saturday, August 1 which left a 24-year-old man needing hospital treatment.

The man and woman on the right are suspected of stealing items from the Co-op store at Bush Fair on Tuesday, May 5 at 7.30pm.

Anyone with information should call Harlow police on 0300 333 4444 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Firm heading for Harlow to fulfill expansion potential

A FIRM which employs a workforce of 90 staff will be moving to Harlow next year after running out of space at its current site.

Molecular Products, of Thaxted, will be transferring its operation to Harlow Business Park, at Greenway, in order to enable continued expansion.

The family-run firm, which makes air purification products, has been located in Thaxted since the 1970s, but managing director Andrew McKernan said: "We've run out of space here and we have been looking to find more for a number of years.

"The move will happen at some point next year. We currently have around 90 members of staff in Thaxted and I would hope they will come with us. We would certainly be looking to take them with us."

WIN Family tickets to Jay Miller's Circus

SINCE it first started back in 1987, Jay Miller's Circus has brought the thrills and spills of the Big Top to all parts of the British Isles.

This year's show, which rolls into Harlow next week, is a spectacular new, vibrant and energetic production with talented and versatile artistes who have been selected from the four corners of the world and have never before been seen in the UK.

And this week we are giving you the chance to win one of 10 family tickets (valid for four people) to the show.

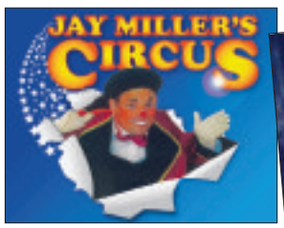

Watch as the Equilibrium Troupe from the former Soviet Union cheat death in front of your eyes!

Aloft in the heights of the Big Top, witness the aerial ballet of four young ladies with the Beauty Above presentation.

For their first tour of the UK, Duo Sysun from Bulgaria balance dexterity in two separate numbers which will leave you astounded.

Never seen before from outside their native country and from the world famous Hungarian State Circus on the bouncing vertical rope is Ferenc.

These are just a few of the acts on the bill, all under the control of expert ringmistress Natalie Verhaegen.

Yes, Jay Miller's Circus is coming to town and all you have to do to stand a chance of winning a family ticket is answer the simple question in the coupon and follow the entry instructions.

Alternatively, you can enter via our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk by clicking on the 'Competitions 'link in the Lifestyle pages. In the 'Name of Competition' box enter Jay Miller's Circus.

Even if you are not one of our 10 winners you can still book tickets to the show, either at the onsite box office or by telephoning 07976 655180. You can then collect your tickets on arrival, 30 minutes prior to your chosen performance.

Let's go do, keep doing and do some more!

EVERYONE wants to be good and do their bit, but where do we start and how do we find the time?

The last year has seen a boom in the amount of people looking to volunteer. YouthNet, home of the UK's volunteering website do-it.org.uk, recorded a massive rise of 115 per cent in the number of people applying to volunteer in 2008 compared to 2007.

Some volunteers are choosing to devote their time to good causes in order to help their quest for employment during the recession, while others are simply looking to give something back to the community and learn new skills.

Whatever the reasons, volunteering is very much of the moment and a 'win win' for all involved.

Volunteering has long been a key part of large companies' commitment to social responsibility. More creative, innovative, engaging and, most importantly, more fulfilling for employees than simply donating financially; the benefits are huge for all concerned.

One such company is Honda. As part of its long-established commitment to being a 'company society wants to exist'; its philosophy revolves around doing (often small) things which make a big difference.

Whether it's creating a zero emission car, a motorcycle with an airbag or a generator to power an Antarctic expedition, the company is a team of 'doers'.

Recently 60 Honda (UK) staff took a day out to help with three projects close to its headquarters near Slough in Berkshire. Over the day, the team rejuvenated a nursery for people with learning disabilities and an allotment for people without gardens, as well as cleaning the depths and surroundings of the Slough Canal Basin, filling 40 refuse sacks and unearthing a mattress and plastic baby doll amongst other things!

Felicity McClintock, volunteer co-ordinator for British Waterways London, which looks after the canal, appreciated the effort: "British Waterways is thrilled by the hard work and enthusiasm of Honda's staff involved in the recent clean-up event.

"We really appreciate the support of volunteers who give up their time to help us keep the waterways clean and tidy for all to enjoy. Every year we spend £100 million maintaining the UK's canals and rivers, removing everything from aluminium cans to shopping trolleys from the water and towpaths."

Emma Knight, who works for Honda (UK) and volunteered at Cherry Orchard Allotments, said: "The team spirit was amazing. Everyone got stuck in, had a great laugh and thoroughly enjoyed giving something back to the local community. We all left with a great buzz and are still talking about it in the corridors. We can't wait for the next time."

Just a week later, a six-strong team from Honda's PR department successfully braved the Three Peaks Challenge, climbing more than 11,000 feet in 26.5 hours to raise more than £3,100 for Child Bereavement Charity, BEN.

That's just 66 staff, in one company, taking a day out each in just a two-week period. Little things adding up to big things, remember?

So how do you become a doer? A good place to start is your local Volunteer Centre http://www.do-it.org.uk/wanttovolunteer/aboutvolunteering/vcfinder where you can find out about opportunities in your area.

Another route is the website, do-it.org.uk, where you can search a UK wide database of volunteering opportunities. do-it.org.uk receives more than 35,000 applications each month from volunteers looking to be matched with one of its one million plus opportunities to volunteer.

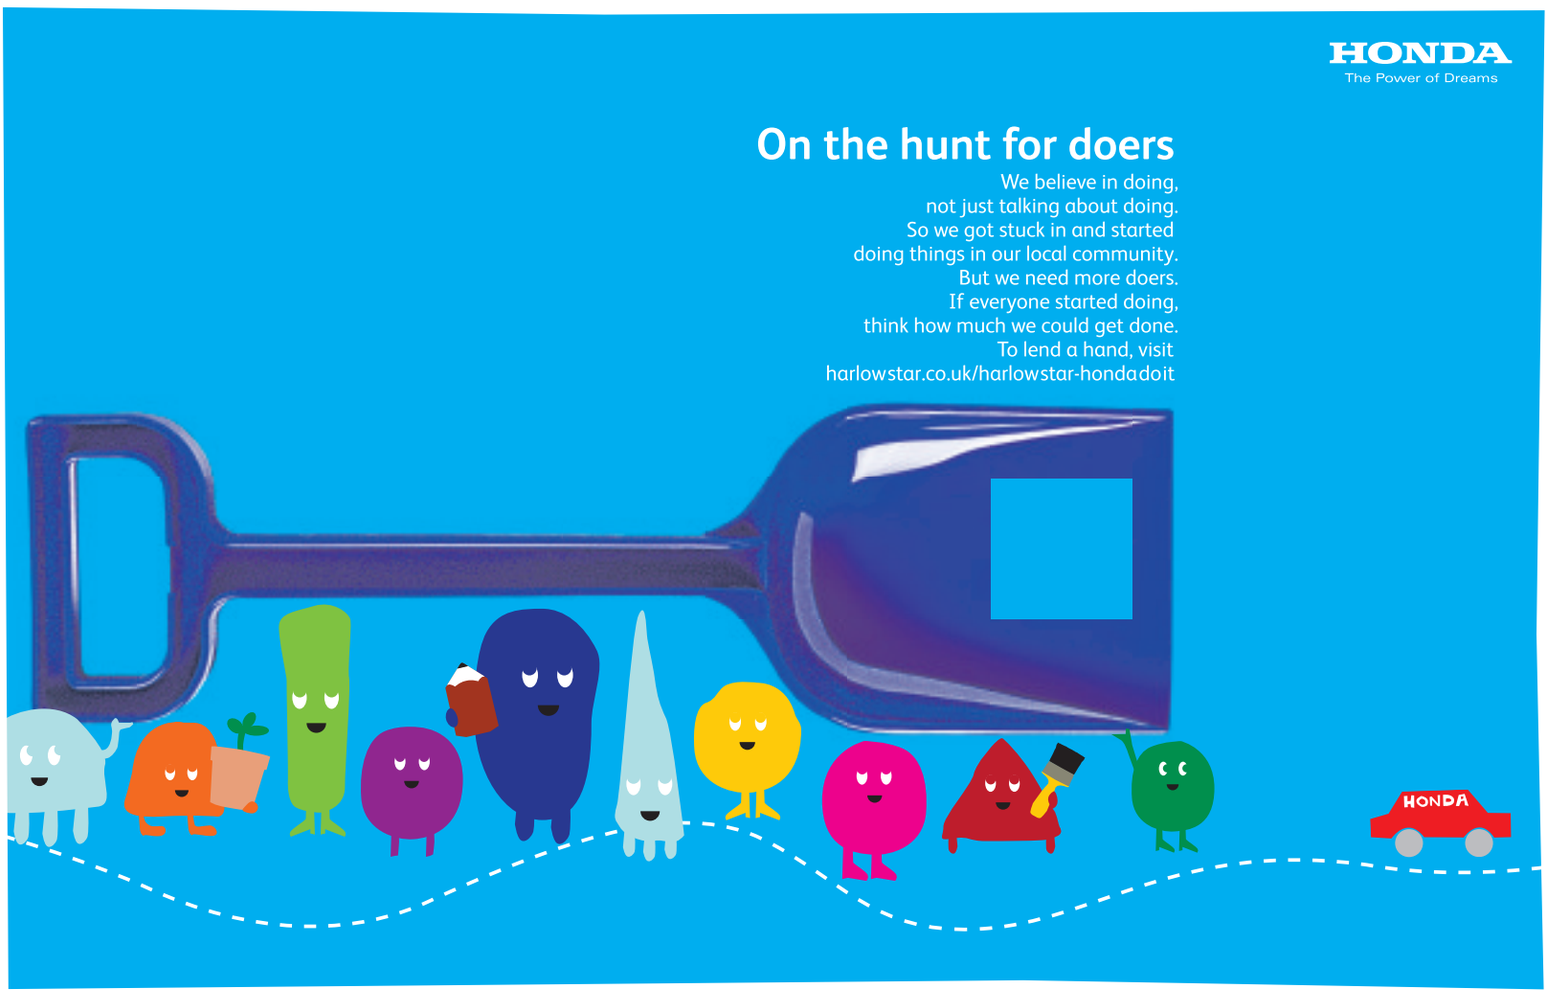

Extending out its 'Doer' attitude nationwide, Honda UK has recently teamed up with do-it.org.uk to as part of its launch campaign for the Honda Insight hybrid car – carrying the strapline 'Everybody wants to be good'.

The company has put a special volunteering search tool on its website – Honda.co.uk - which matches volunteers to environmental projects looking for support.

Honda is also asking each of its dealers to nominate a local or national environmental charity - to which it will donate £5 for every Insight test drive taken.

As Ian Armstrong, marketing manager for Honda UK puts it: "This is an extremely positive and optimistic initiative, helping the wider community ... real action and real results."

So visit the website in the advertisement below and in the words of Honda's recent 'doer' advertisement..."Let's go do, keep doing and do some more. Start a to-do list. Because there's a million and one 'do's' still to be done."

Festive season expected to drive buyer demand

Summer may have only just ended, but for many that means one thing; it's time to start planning for Christmas. With a recent survey showing half of shoppers have already begun buying presents, local estate agency haart is urging house hunters to look ahead to the festive season and move now to be settled by Christmas.

At the same time, many buyers will also want to take advantage of the remaining stamp duty holiday and haart is expecting to see a significant rise in people moving before the New Year.

Shawn Meakins, Branch Manager said: "With the festive season approaching, many house hunters are now looking towards Christmas and stepping up their search in order to be settled in their new home in time for turkey on Christmas day.

"In addition, as the stamp duty holiday draws to a close, we are encouraging buyers to make the most of this golden opportunity for significant cash savings. With Christmas on its way, the money saved will no doubt come in handy for presents, decorations and festive food."

As of 2010, buyers of properties under £175,000 who were previously exempt from stamp duty, will now have to pay 1% on properties over £125,000 – which will add an extra £1,600 on the price of an average first time property of £160,000.

Figures released recently from haart, part of the UK's largest independent estate agency group, already show a 32% increase in the number of people looking for properties, which is likely to be due to stabilising market conditions and the extended stamp duty holiday.

Paul Smith, Chief Executive of haart added: "Many people looking to buy are hoping to do so by the end of the year in order to avoid the additional stamp duty costs.

"There are certainly ongoing positive signs in the housing industry, with recent statistics from the Royal Institute of Chartered Surveyors showing rising house prices in the three months to September, however there continues to be a lack of supply.

"We would urge sellers to come forward and help meet the increased demand created by buyers hoping to move by Christmas and capitalise on the stamp duty holiday."

Russian ballet to grace The Playhouse stage

CHRISTMAS will come early at The Playhouse when talented Russian ballet students spread some fairytale magic with a spectacular adaptation of Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker.

In a coup de grace for the Harlow venue, the celebrated Russian State Ballet Academy of Perm will stop off in Harlow on Wednesday on its first-ever national theatre tour of the UK.

The Academy has a tremendous reputation as being one of the most prestigious ballet schools in Russia, with gifted former students going on to dance in respected shows all over the globe.

A firm Christmas favourite, The Nutcracker tells the tale of a young girl named Maria who is given a present of a nutcracker by her uncle Drosslemeyer on Christmas Eve.

In a peculiar, hallucinatory dream the nutcracker comes to life as a prince who then leads Maria on a weird and wonderful journey fraught with danger and excitement as she confronts the sinister mouse king, adventures in the land of Sweets and ultimately falls in love with her dashing royal companion.

The performance begins at 7.30pm and tickets are available from The Playhouse box office on (01279) 431945.

what's on

COMEDY: Edinburgh Festival favourite and Perrier Award-winning US comedian Rich Hall, pictured right, visits the Playhouse tomorrow (Friday) for an evening of deadpan comic genius featuring his hell-raising redneck alter-ego Otis Lee Crenshaw and a typically acerbic stand-up set. The show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £15 from (01279) 431945.

DANCE: Olivier Award-winning hip hop dance crew Boy Blue make their Playhouse debut on Saturday with a body-popping stage spectacular featuring high-kicking martial arts fusion routine Seven, pop and lock showcase Unusual Force and a performance by Da Bratz, the crew's youth project. The show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £12 (£10 concessions) from (01279) 431945.

CHILDREN: A big scary monster of a show lumbers into The Playhouse on Thursday when Tall Stories presents its smash-hit children's production of The Gruffalo, based on the award-winning book by Julia Donaldson and Alex Scheffler. Join Mouse as she sets out into the woods in search for hazelnuts, meets a wheeler-dealer Fox, an eccentric old Owl, a maraca-shaking Snake, and, of course, the Gruffalo himself! The fun-packed show runs from Thursday to Saturday, with afternoon performances starting at 1.30pm and morning performances at 10.30pm. Tickets are available from (01279) 431945 priced at £9.50 (£8 concessions).

Book's potted history of long-forgotten industry

SOME years ago, a mystery which had puzzled historians for decades was solved by a team of archaeologists led by Wally Davey of Roydon.

A type of pottery, dubbed Metropolitan Ware and which was widely used in the London area as well as further afield during the 17th and 18th centuries, was shown to have been manufactured in Harlow.

Fragments of red earthenware decorated with a wide variety of characteristic patterns, and some black ware, had been continually exposed in excavations. It was conclusively demonstrated that the pots of which they once formed part had come from Harlow kilns.

Wally Davey and a close co-operator, Helen Walker, have now published a detailed account of all that has been discovered in a book entitled The Harlow Pottery Industries, sponsored by the Medieval Pottery Research Group and English Heritage.

It is a scholarly work which reveals that before the emergence of a modern pottery industry in the Stoke-on-Trent area in the late 18th century, Harlow was one of the most important centres in England for the production of pottery.

Pottery was produced in the area from the 13th to the 18th centuries and the industry gave its name to Potter Street. The book provides a list of more than 70 potters who worked in the locality, from Coc le Pottere (1254) to Nathaniel Adams (1778-1808).

The book provides a map of the known sites of kilns. Those at Mill Street, Carters Mead, Fullers Mead, Brays Grove Playing Field, Bush Fair, Latton Farm, Latton Street Scout Hall, Latton Riddings and Church Langley are described in detail, together with the types of pottery they produced.

Much of the book is devoted to a comprehensive description of the different vessels, dates of production, features of their shapes and their decorations. Appendices by Mike Hughes and the late Alan Vince report on a scientific analysis of the clays used.

Wally Davey has devoted many years of his life to the research on which this work is based and both authors include important contributions on the documentary evidence produced by the late Richard Bartlett, former curator of Harlow Museum.

This book is a classic which reveals a fascinating aspect of Harlow's past, of which the town's residents should be aware.

Dancers complete panto line-up

THE final piece of the Cinderella jigsaw has fallen into place following a hugely successful dance audition for The Playhouse's Christmas pantomime.

More than 120 fleet-footed youngsters dazzled judges at the open event to stake their claim for a role in the fairy tale show which begins a month-long run at the theatre on December 11.

The judging panel, made up of representatives from producers New World Productions, were then given the difficult task of whittling down the numbers to a final 40, all of whom will get their chance to shine on The Playhouse stage.

New World's Gary Telfer said: "We were really pleased with how it went. The people auditioning were of a very high standard.

"They made it very tough for the panel to decide as the standard was even better than we were expecting. We're really pleased with the final 40; the dance routines will be tough and they will spend a lot of time on stage.

"It's been nice telling the successful youngsters they are in the show. Some of them have been crying down the phone; they're all delighted obviously."

THE INVENTION OF LYING certificate 12A 1h39m

SET in an alternate reality in which everyone instinctively tells the truth and the concept of a fib doesn't yet exist, The Invention Of Lying is ripe with comic potential.

Sadly, co-writers Ricky Gervais and Matthew Robinson take their central dramatic conceit to garish extremes, having characters converse with brutal honesty regardless of the hurt they might cause.

It's not enough for a woman to politely rebuff a man's offer of a date with a simple no. She has to crush what remains of his shattered self-confidence with a barrage of insults.

A sadistic streak runs throughout the screenplay, sporadically vanishing for a handful of touching and poignant scenes like a son tearfully bidding farewell to his dying mother and convincing her about the existence of Heaven.

Predictably, Gervais casts himself in the lead role and, as with Ghost Town, he's an unsympathetic and unconvincing romantic lead. The notion that Jennifer Garner's acid-tongued beauty might succumb to his so-called charms is more laughable than anything in the script.

Lowly screenwriter Mark Bellison (Gervais) is about to be fired by his boss Anthony (Jeffrey Tambor) and his landlord is demanding rent money he doesn't have. So he heads for his bank to close the account.

Asked by the teller how much he wants to withdraw, Mark suffers a moment of blinding realisation and tells a porky, asking for $800 rather than the $300 he actually has to his name.

Having stumbled upon the art of lying, he begins to exploit deceit for personal gain at the roulette table with best friend Greg (Louis C.K.). He also wins the affections of the lovely Anna McDoogles (Garner) and impresses Anthony with a wacky screenplay about a spaceship landing during the time of Black Plague, which everyone accepts as historical fact.

But as Mark grows increasingly comfortable with lying, he realises there are grave consequences for leading people astray.

The Invention Of Lying is an unnecessarily crude subversion of polite social mores, littered with cameos from the likes of Stephen Merchant, Christopher Guest and Edward Norton.

Gervais's trademark bluster grates and we lose patience completely when he stands before the world to deliver a 21st Century Ten Commandments, sticky taped to the back of pizza delivery boxes in place of stone tablets.

There are occasional chuckles but they are lamentably few and far between.

New lease of life for an old favourite

TOY STORY IN 3D certificate PG 1h21m

THIS is an eye-popping revamp of the 1995 computer-animated adventure which brings to life the contents of a boy's toy cupboard.

As Andy's birthday draws near, his toys – especially cowboy Woody (voiced by Tom Hanks) – grow increasingly nervous about new arrivals usurping them for their owner's affections. Woody's fears prove well founded when action figure Buzz Lightyear (Tim Allen) takes pride of place on the bed, leaving poor Woody out in the cold.

Buzz dazzles the other residents of the toy chest and Woody reacts by attempting to push him out of the window. But it isn't long before the two rivals have to bond to escape the clutches of demented next-door neighbour Sid (Erik von Detten) and find their way back to their pint-sized owner.

Toy Story In 3D dazzles and amuses just as much now as it did 14 years ago and the crisp visuals are still leaps and bounds ahead of the competition.

The new technology is used to startling effect in key sequences such as the climactic chase on a remote control car, while the script is an embarrassment of one-liners.

Fiat's Punto stretches the point

IF you operate on the basis that all the superminis from major manufacturers are more or less equally technically proficient, who's to say buying the prettiest one isn't a reasonable course of action?

Fortunately, thanks to a series of recent tweaks, there's now more to the Fiat Grande Punto than a slick piece of styling.

But beauty can be a transient thing. Now that it's been on the market a few years, the shape of the Grande Punto carries with it less of a 'wow' factor and the importers have had to turn to more familiar ways of attracting buyers' attention. Hence the introduction of a five-year unlimited mileage warranty, Fiat's clever 'Blue&Me' hands-free entertainment and communications system as standard equipment, the introduction of a sporty GP version and the addition of a larger 8-valve 1.4-litre petrol engine on entry-level versions.

As before, there are three petrol engine options – a 1.4-litre 8v with 77bhp, 1.4-litre 16v with 95bhp and 1.4 T-Jet unit with 120bhp – as well as two turbodiesels: a 1.3-litre 16v MultiJet (75bhp) plus a 1.9-litre MultiJet with 130bhp.

Fiat Grande Punto range

Price £9,650-£17,005 OTR

INSURANCE GROUPS	2-15
CO_2 EMISSIONS	115-162g/km
PERFORMANCE [1.4 8v]	0-60mph 13.2s /top speed 103mph
FUEL CONSUMPTION [1.4 8v]	(combined) 47.9mpg
STANDARD SAFETY FEATURES	Twin front, side and curtain airbags / ABS with EBD
WILL IT FIT IN YOUR GARAGE?	length 4.03m/width 1.687m/height 1.49m

One of the Grande Punto's most useful features is its 'City' button which reduces steering effort when parking to fingertip levels. With the City mode disabled, the steering gains a bit more feel. One of the areas that have come on leaps and bounds since the launch of the last Punto is refinement, and Fiat have added a significant amount of sound deadening material to the Grande and worked on reducing vibration in the engine bay. The result is that the car is far more hushed at motorway speeds.

Look at those teardrop-shaped headlamps and chromed air intake. If you saw that appearing in your rear view mirror, you'd be forgiven for thinking a Maserati Coupe was sitting on your back bumper. The Grande Punto is one of those rare cars that looks good from every angle.

Interior space is a standout feature. The 275-litre boot is about average for the class but rear leg and headroom are very good indeed. The interior is rather minimalist, the main dials being housed in a curiously flat-topped binnacle with an unexceptional centre console that, from a purely aesthetic perspective, is probably the car's weakest point.

One particularly smart touch is the extension of body colour to the soft trims and dash inserts. If the dashboard was finished in grey or black it would look a little dull, but specify it in red and it really lifts the cabin.

If you can only stretch to the entry-level 'Active' models, then don't worry too much. They've been upgraded to include body-coloured wing mirrors and a digital instrument display incorporating an exterior temperature read-out. Plus you also get the 'Blue&Me' system, which allows you to link in your Bluetooth 'phone with the car, then control it either via voice or buttons on the steering wheel, with your phonebook displaying on the instrument panel. There's also a USB port in the glove compartment, so that you can listen to any MP3, WMA or WAV audio files loaded on a device with a USB connection.

Having some of the most modern and efficient engines in the sector helps the Grande Punto post some very decent cost of ownership figures. It's tempting to think that as the Fiat is one of the biggest superminis around, it would consequently be one of the more expensive to run but there are many much smaller cars that are shamed by the Grande Punto when it comes to the balance sheet.

The gutsy 1.4-litre petrol cars will average just over 47mpg. The 1.3-litre Multijet diesels fare the best in terms of fuel economy, logging a hefty 62.8mpg.

Fiat isn't about to let this Grande Punto fade into the background as a forgotten fashion accessory in the supermini market, hence this useful package of upgrades. The things that matter haven't changed though. It still looks great and the 5-star Euro NCAP rating testifies to the fact that it's still one of the safest small cars that it's possible to buy.

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20
The good news is that as this week comes to a close, the tense stand off between Saturn and Uranus will begin to wane, yet there may still be unexpected issues, or unresolved tensions which need confronting. Fortunately, the Full Moon can aid your progress, as can a brisk Mercury/Mars link. But be prepared to listen to others, as well as speak out. Call for your in-depth forecast…

Taurus Apr 21-May 21
October is an astral month which is going to examine the very basis of your existence. And this can be a background factor for the next couple of years. This week, although there can be some jolly interludes, there can also be work stresses or a sense of being run down or below par. Give yourself a lifestyle audit. If you're in denial, it's time face it! Call now for more astral advice…

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
There can be lots of opportunities for fun this month, but someone close to you may not approve, particularly if they feel you are taking your eye off work or spending too much time in the pursuit of pleasure. Yet life is for enjoying, so be positive. However, this week good time management is essential. Someone can easily feel that you're neglecting them. Call for more news and advice…

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23
Mars, in your zodiac sign still, continues to make a fine link to the speedy Mercury. This can give you the gift of the gab - great if you want to get chatting to someone new and desirable, or make an impression on the job front. Yet sincerity remain your guiding principle. If you don't feel comfortable with a situation, respect and react to this Cancer. Call now for more astral advice…

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23
October is set to be busy, with lots of comings and goings. Yet to make sure that you don't scatter yourself too thinly you need to prepare yourself a plan. It doesn't need to be set in stone and you can make changes to it as the weeks go by, but if you don't you may find yourself feeling pulled in several directions all at once, and ending up stressed out. Call your prediction line for more…

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23
At your best, you can be very self-disciplined, but this is a week and month, when you may decide that a treat or ten are in order. That's fine if you have the extra income to pay for these, but if you don't, any impulse purchases you make will soon lead to a distinct case of buyers remorse. Make sure all your financial obligations are bang up to date. Call now for your financial forecast…

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23
This can be one of the most important times you have experienced for a very long time indeed, with October packed full of particularly important events for you Libra. This week, someone close to you may demand your attention, but you may be preoccupied with worldly or work moves and be very determined to make them count. Try to stay sensitive. Call for your love scope in full…

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22
Is it true that you are secretive, or is it an astral myth? Either way, things can have a habit of coming into the open this week, and throughout October, in a way which you may find a little bit uncomfortable. People could confront you with sides of your nature that you are unaware of or would prefer to keep to yourself. This could be a rude awakening. Call for more astral advice…

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21
This can be a super week for business affairs, and your creativity and flair can get you noticed. However, socially and around friendships, your natural openness may cause a pinch point. If there is someone who has been taking your generosity for granted, you may find yourself heading towards the end of your tether. Do not be too free and easy. Call for your in-depth forecast…

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20
Your ambitions sector is sparkling all month, but with success often comes sacrifice and if you're spending too much time away from your family, or doing a job just for the money it can lead to a profound sense of dissatisfaction. Then again, watch out for an overbearing type who expects everything on their terms and fails to see your needs. Call your special prediction line for more…

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19
Differing values over shared finances and/or contracts can be the breeding ground for discontent. Perhaps you need to have a bit of a stand-off in order to find a solution. If someone has been lacking respect for what you bring to a situation you can stand up for your rights. Yet choose your words carefully and only use legalities as a last resort. Call now for your financial forecast…

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20
Chase up money that is owed to you. Don't take people at face value be persistent in getting what is rightfully yours. Equally try to settle any debts that you have. Feeling that you are on top of all this - even if your budget is tight, will give a sense of being in control. In love, someone very alluring can enter your orbit and you CAN be interested. Running

ANN Somerville was the first Harlow Running Club member to complete the Sony Ericsson Run to the Beat half marathon at London's O2 Arena.

She completed the race in a personal best (PB) time of 1 hr 54 min and 54 secs.

Somerville was followed home by Joanne Chung (2:04.12), Wendy Spring (2:08.17 PB), Linda Hawkins (2:21.53, PB) and Susan Dewen (2:21.53).

This is an event that combines music with sport by providing 11 live bands who play as competitors trek around the 13.1-mile course to encourage the runners to perform to their best.

More than 9,000 runners competed in the race.

Meanwhile, Jared Bethell was the first Harlow finisher at the Saffron Walden 10K road race. He was 7th from more than 350 runners in 36:25 while Clare Williams was the first Harlow lady finisher in 49:20 (PB) and Susie Morley also recorded a PB of 59:53.

Other Harlow RC results for the Saffron Walden 10K: Jason Haigh 41:02; John Bull 42:26; Jon Steadman 42:38; Ryan Johnson 46:42; Vicky Steadman 50:03; Ron Newton 50:15; Fiona Wood 58:24.

Second-half show seals first success

Harlow 3, Havering II 0

Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division

AFTER a misfiring first half, Harlow Ladies found their shooting boots to notch up their first victory of the new season.

Harlow had the majority of posession in the first half at Passmores School but were unable to convert their chances.

Shots from Emma Tweddle and Holly Reilly went wide.

Havering counter-attacked well, forcing short corners from the home team but Nicky Chesworth, returning in goal, and Petra Trimble were resolute in defence.

From the second period whistle, the hosts showed their intent and put a flowing move together from the start with Carolyn Rushton coming close to converting the move, denied only by the Havering keeper.

It wasn't long until the home team broke the deadlock.

On 47 minutes Rushton quickly latched onto a swift return pass from Sonya Amos following a short-corner routine to put Harlow desevedly ahead.

As Havering pushed for the equaliser, Harlow doubled their lead after 53 minutes.

Michelle Stanesy was in the perfect position to slot home at the far post another fine cross from Anna Ferdinando.

Harlow wrapped things up with 10 minutes remaining when Rushton doubled her tally for the day, making it four in two games, when she put away a reverse-stick effort after the keeper had saved her initial attempt.

HARLOW LADIES: Chesworth, Shearman-Slack, Trimble, Jo Green, Ferdinando, Tweddle, Rushton, Douglas, Stanesby, Amos, Reilly, Figg.

Harlow 3, Waltham Forest III 0

Essex Women's Hockey League, division three

PLAYER-of-the-match Dannie Moeser grabbed a brace as Harlow Ladies' second team recorded a solid home victory over Waltham Forest III.

The visitors attacked for most of an action-packed second half on Saturday but the deadlock was not broken until the 50th minute from a Moeser break and shot.

Moeser netted in similar vein five minutes later to put the hosts 2-0 ahead.

Shortly before the end, Alex Figg scored with a great shot from the edge of the D.

Earlier, both teams were evenly matched in a goalless first half.

Waltham were denied a goal when Harlow's keeper Linda Rowley saved a penalty shot.

We're just Mad for Great North Run

A MINI run at the Great North Run proved a whole lotta fun for these youngsters.

Three-year-old Madeleine Bailey (Harlow AC) was among those to complete a 1-mile trek. She clocked an incredible 10 mins, 45 secs. Her sister Elise Bailey (8), was 6th fastest girl in 6:34 over the same distance.

In the three-mile race (ages 11-14), their brother Joseph Bailey was 59th in 17:17.

Athletics quartet end season in style

Athletics

FOUR Harlow-based athletes signed off their 2009 track season in style at Watford in Hertfordshire.

Daniel Yaxley (16), who has set new personal bests (PBs) in no less than six events this summer, won an 800m race in 2 mins 4 secs.

He took the lead from the gun and was untroubled as he strode to a comfortable victory.

Ryan Dunne (14) and Sam Benge (15) shared the lead on the first lap of their 1,500m race before Sam broke away to win in 4:40. This was a new PB by nearly 10 seconds.

Ryan came 4th in a PB of 4:47.

Tyler Bown (14) returned from holiday and was second in the 200m. He was just outside his best time, finishing in 25.18s.

Conditions were warm but fine for the event in Watford.

The youngsters all represent Woodford Green AC.

Harlow get off to a flying start in league

Harlow 4, Wapping IV 2
East Men's Hockey League, division four south east

THE ominous outlook from the pre-season build-up was swept aside by Harlow with a convincing home win over Wapping in their first league game.

Harlow had lost half a team's worth of young talent who have gone to their respective universities and also had to get to grips with a new formation.

Captain Joe Symonds had also injured his ankle in a charity football match but made the decision to risk playing despite not being fit.

It meant that Harlow would have at least 11 men on the pitch for Saturday's sunny opener.

Harlow started dominantly but their opening goal ironically came from a counter-attack.

Steve Jones sent Chris Shearman-Slack on his way for a trademark run, dribbling round no less than five players before slotting the ball into the bottom corner.

This goal settled the hosts Harlow players and they doubled their advantage from a short corner.

Shearman-Slack set up James Smith to stop and hit a perfectly-positioned shot just inside the goalkeeper's right-hand post.

Smith followed his first goal up by securing Harlow's third shortly after when he tackled a defender 10 yards out before firing a shot low into the corner for his second.

Harlow took their foot off the pedal and tried to keep the ball in their own half.

This was costly as two small mistakes just before the break allowed a Wapping attacker to scramble in from close range, giving keeper Adam Johnson no chance.

A tight start to the second half preceded Harlow's lead being cut to 3-2.

A well-worked move split the Harlow defence and the attacker finished well.

The home side reasserted their control and Robert Chandler clinched the win with 10 minutes left.

He tapped home a rebound through the Wapping keeper's legs from close range.

HARLOW: Johnson, Castle, Plumridge, Jones, Gorringe, Krzoska, Smith, Shearman-Slack, Symonds (c), Ottley, Chandler.

Bosses' ref rage in fiery derby

Ware 1, Harlow Tn 2
Ryman League, division one north

THE referee was forced to speak to both managers as the Hawks recorded their first win in seven league games in a fast-paced derby at lowly Ware.

Anthony Anstead's side had not won since the opening day of the season when they beat Great Wakering Rovers 4-3 but have endured some bad luck.

Some strange refereeing decisions upset both managers.

Anstead and his opposite number Paul Haley were both spoken to by the ref during the game and then at half-time along with the respective club secretaries.

"The refereeing was poor. It was inconsistent but I am thrilled to get a win and the points," said Anstead.

"Ware created a host of chances but we looked more dangerous in front of goal."

Ware's Ben Andreos wasted two early chances before Hawks right-back Joe Clemo was booked for a foul on Andreos just outside the box despite Anstead's protests that Clemo had played the ball.

Andreos wasted two good chances on 14 and 22 minutes and at the other end, Ashley Robinson fired just wide on 25 minutes.

Former Harlow stopper James Hasell, filling in for Ware's suspended keeper Harry Ricketts, tipped over Daryl Doolan's fierce shot on 37 minutes before Waite palmed round a fierce effort from former Harlow midfielder Paul Burton.

In added time at the end of the half, Harlow struck from their first clear sight of goal.

James Edgerley played in Robinson who beat Sam Rose's last-ditch challenge and thumped a screamer past Hasell.

Shortly after the break Andreos fired straight the advancing Waite before a Robinson cross was nodded over the home bar by Doolan on the hour mark.

On 62 minutes, Edgerley lofted a free-kick past everybody in the area and it cracked off the junction between post and crossbar much to the relief of Hasell.

Edgerley doubled Harlow's advantage on 74 minutes when he worked himself some space in the box, beat a defender and slotted the ball past the advancing Hasell. The home side netted a deserved consolation effort deep into injury-time at the end of the game when substitute Michael Toner drilled a low shot from a tight angle past Waite and into the far corner.

Anstead added: "I was annoyed not to get a clean sheet and our performance was not great but Ashley scored a great goal and Edgerley's was good too."

HARLOW TOWN: Waite, Clemo, Clarey, Pelley, Adegbite, Doolan, Edgerley, Mason, Taylor-Forbes (Edwards 90), Robinson (Abraham 81), Wright (Gradosielski 52). Subs not used: Green, Simpson.

Hawks will not appeal over Ryman League's points deduction

THE Hawks will not be appealing to the FA against the 10-point deduction imposed by the Ryman League.

The deduction for financial irregularities was imposed at a Board meeting last week.

This follows the club entering into a Company Voluntary Agreement (CVA) with its creditors on Thursday September 17.

Harlow Town have reported debts of around £280,000.

Explaining the reasons for refusing an appeal, Hawks chief executive Carol Bothwell said: "You have the costs of the appeal and there could be a fine. I spoke to Nick Robinson [Ryman League vice-chairman] and the chances of overturning this are very small.

"It's not worth it and we did not want to get the club further into debt."

The deduction effectively leaves Harlow on minus one point.

But Mrs Bothwell said: "We now have to concentrate on the league. It will be great if we can get a run together."

Alan Turvey, the league chairman, said: "With the permission of Harlow, they did not require a personal hearing. The matter was dealt with and it was agreed that the club would be deducted 10 points."

The club had to be fined under League rules concerning clubs entering into CVA agreements.

Hawks Conc out!

It was 6-0 on 65 minutes when Elraz rushed out of goal into no man's land and Wall tucked in from 25 yards out.

Completing the humiliation Pelley's attempted clearance went into his own net for 7-0 on 70 minutes.

Pelley and Clemo then got sent off and Harlow somehow did not concede again.

Harlow's previous heaviest loss (all competitions) was the 7-0 reverse in the third qualifying round of the FA Trophy at home to Fareham Town on December 17 1983.

HARLOW TN: Elraz 3, Clemo 3, Clarey 4, Malimabue 4 (Cleaver 55, 6) 4, Adegbite 4, Doolan (Simpson 66) 5, Mason 5, Wright 5, Pelley 4 (sent off 78), Robinson 6, Abraham 5 (Edwards 66). Subs not used: Eyong, Green. Att: 142

Doble doubles up

SIMON Doble was in the Eastern Counties Region (ECR) Petanque team that avoided releagtion to division one of the Inter-Regional Championships.

The player, from Harlow, was in team five of the ECR side that competed at Brean Sands in Somerset.

Team five won five of its 12 games over the weekend with the event drawing more than 1,000 players from around the UK.

Smith shines as Colts avenge loss to Seasiders

Youth rugby

DANNY Smith stole the show as he scored all 15 points when Harlow Colts defeated their Southend counterparts 15-7 at home to record their first victory of the season.

Sunday's triumph at Ram Gorse saw the tables being turned as it followed Southend's victory against the Young Rams two weeks before.

A 30m penalty from Smith put Harlow ahead before slack home defence saw Southend score a try that was converted.

Harlow trailed 7-3 at the break but started to dominate possession up front.

On 45 minutes, Smith broke the Southend defensive line to score a try he converted.

Smith scored his second try 10 minutes before the end of the match following a superb backs move. This was unconverted.

Harlow U-17s only had 12 players but hosts East London sportingly lent the Rams three players.

East London exploited missed tackles to score three tries, two of which were converted, as they went on to win 19-7.

Harlow created a few opportunities but only scored one try through wing Taylor Peters, who ran over in the corner following a well-executed backs move. Jack Perry kicked an excellent conversion.

Harlow U-15s, weakened by injuries and unavailability, were out-gunned as they slipped to a 49-5 defeat at Cambridgeshire County Cup champions Cambridge.

The hosts played excellent 15-man rugby and scored four tries in each half. Three were converted and a penalty was also kicked.

Harlow's unconverted try came in the second half. Andre Riddell won a loose ball and broke before he was stopped but passed to scrum-half Hayden McMaster who touched down.

Harlow U-14s were given another confidence booster before their league campaign begins when they came back from 10-7 down at half-time to win 38-10 at Westcliff U-14 B.

Westcliff B will be playing Harlow in an Essex League this season.

Scott Whitby scored 13 points for Harlow (one try, four conversions). The visitors' other tries came from Tom Cunningham, Fraser Bleach, Mitchell Sinfield and Jordan Shipp (2).

Harlow U-13s bounced back from two heavy defeats in their first two games to beat Datchworth 36-17 at home.

Datchworth were lent four players by the Rams who led 24-5 at half-time.

The hosts scored through tries from Jack Christie (2), Alfie Clark (2), Adam Seeley and Corey Smith. Clark kicked three conversions.

Rams suffer narrow derby defeat

Harlow 27, Saffron Walden 29

RFU London div two north east

A SPIRITED performance from the Rams pack was just outweighed by poor home defence as Harlow slipped to a narrow defeat against close rivals Saffron Walden at Ram Gorse.

Harlow's forwards competed well against heavier opponents but the Rams' relatively inexperienced backs line was exposed when the visitors spun the ball out wide.

Walden went ahead on five minutes with left wing Paul Marshall touched down and Tom Hughes kicked the conversion.

Harlow then came close to scoring twice with Dave Stradling having a score ruled out after it was adjudged he had not grounded it, before Walden doubled their advantage on 15 minutes.

David Patch ran 60 metres to score under the posts and Hughes slotted the conversion for a 14-0 lead.

Harlow struck back with a fine individual try. Scott Romaine won possession at the back of the scrum and shrugged off defenders as he ran 40m to score an unconverted try.

The Rams trailed 14-5 at the break but from the kick-off the hosts conceded a try scored by Walden full-back David Philp. Hughes kicked the conversion.

Harlow trailed 21-5 but rallied. A cross kick from Dan Hockley allowed Rob Mackie to chase and catch it before passing to number eight Sean Roberts who scored an unconverted try in the corner.

Mackie slotted a penalty before Hughes replied with one for Walden and the latter led 24-13.

Roberts went over for a converted try from a 5m scrum and cut the deficit to four points.

On 70 minutes, Marshall dashed over to score his second try for Walden. The conversion was missed.

From the kick-off, Walden hesitated and Hockley picked up the loose ball. When Hockley was halted he off-loaded to Paul Prindiville and he went over for a try converted by Mackie.

Harlow trailed by just two points and exerted more pressure but a further vital score was elusive.

Director of Rugby Lee Harron said: "We gave away three of the tries they scored and when we went down 14-0 in the first half it was too much to make up.

"Credit should go to the young players. It's the type of game that last year we would have lost by 30 or 40 points."

HARLOW: Mackie, Grimley, L. Bowering, Heapy, Hockley, Stradling (Banks 75), Harron, Ephgrave, Wilkins, Prindiville, Twiner, Hawkins, Romaine, Roberts, Clark (M. Bowering 70).

Other result: Essex div one: Ilford Wanderers 25, Upper Clapton 0.

Golfers triumph in Plate

Cont'd from back

The Harlow club won by 13 holes to 12 after the matchplay ended in a draw.

It was so tense and victory was only clinched when James Soileux won his last match by six holes against Mark Rawlings. The tie was not decided until the very last hole.

Canons Brook are also previous winners of the Thornton Cup.

The Thornton Plate is for Thornton Cup first-round losers.

The Harlow club originally won the Thornton Cup, the premier Essex team matchplay contest, back in 2004.

Graham Brownsell, Canons Brook team manager, said: "It's a bit special and nice to have that feeling of being the first name on the cup."

Keiran Brownsell gave the side a great start, winning by four holes against Mickey Cox.

But the club's fortunes dipped as Andrew Thomson, Olly O'Hara and Darren Pegram all lost to leave them 3-1 down.

John Withington (13), who replaced unavailable Steve Jones, belied his tender years.

In a fluctuating match, he went two up then two down before winning by 2 up as Canons clawed their way back into contention.

Allyn Charles, team captain, said: "John did so well. He has a great talent and temperament. He was only 12 when he played in the competition earlier in the summer."

Dion Keyser and Paul Stent halved their matches before Colin Ledwith beat Siv Rainford.

The match score was poised at 4-4.

Although Simon Hartley lost to Lloyd Glover (6 up), Soileux matched this and the Harlow team won on holes countback.

Charles added: "It showed great determination and teamwork to win. It was a fantastic effort."

Coach honoured with East title

AWARD: The Harlow-based Essex women's team track and field manager and county coaching secretary John Stow, centre, with Woodford Green AC youngsters (s)

AN athletics stalwart from Harlow has picked up the prestigious title of 2009 England Athletics East Region Performance Coach of the Year.

John Stow (56), of The Maples, will be presented with the award at a ceremony later this month.

The Essex women's team track & field manager and county coaching secretary is also a coach at Woodford Green Athletic Club, and has been involved in coaching the sport in the county since 2000.

Stow first took up middle-distance running as a child in the 1960s but has excelled as a coach. "I get the same buzz from coaching. This [award] has been as good as my Great Britain selection."

Born in New Malden, Stow moved to Harlow in the mid-80s and was a cub scout leader with the Kingsmoor 1st group from 1993-2000.

He then moved back to athletics and began coaching.

Stow, who coached at Harlow Athletic Club for a short time, started in athletics at the age of 15 in 1968 at the renowned Belgrave Harriers club in Wimbledon.

In 1970, he set two club records over the 1,500m (3 mins 57.8) and 3,000m (8:36) and won the Surrey county schools 1,500m title, breaking a record with a time of 3:58.

Stow represented Surrey in the All-England Schools Championships and won selection for Great Britain in the European Youth School Games in Santry near Dublin, Ireland.

He competed in the 1,500m and was 6th in the final.

He represented Woodford Green in National League meetings but finally quit competitive sport at the age of 33.

He added: "Reg Hopkins was my first coach [at Belgrave Harriers]. A lot of what I do has come from him. He was a great coach and team manager and I also want to praise Gordon Biscoe who helped me so much in my late teens and early twenties."

Stow is waiting to see if he is selected for the England Athletics Coach of the Year awards at Birmingham this weekend.

Philfen Shadow can shade graded final

Welcome to Inside Track, our column that gives you the reader an insight into Harlow Greyhound Stadium as our top tipster reveals his favourites for tomorrow (Friday October 2).

LAST week's heats of the graded competition went pretty much as expected with most of the fancied runners making it through to this Friday's final.

The trap draw has proved crucial to the chances of PHILFEN SHADOW as he emerges as the only wide runner to qualify for the 9.45pm contest.

With a clear run to the first bend almost certain, he can use his early pace to gain a handy position and then assert down the back straight.

SAMMY PATSY was beaten by the selection in the heats and may have to settle for second best again.

Elsewhere on a competitive card, NO JOKE CHRISTY can continue her fine run of form with another victory and LUKES BARNEY can make all in the graded stayers event.

Third loss for humbled champions

ALEMITE Athletic suffered a third successive loss when they went down 7-2 at home to Hatfield Heath in the premier division of the Footprint Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League.

North Weald were awarded a walkover win when Old Street could not field a side.

Salvation Army (Harlow) maintained their good start with a 4-1 success at Sheering. Scorers were Niall Bolland (2), Aaron Weaving and Stuart Znonie.

Other results:- prem div - Potter Street 0, Loughton 3.

Div one - Alemite Ath res 4, Sheering res 0; Avondale Rangers 1, Birchanger 0; Hatfield Heath res 0, North Weald res 1 (George Attrill).

Hawks Conc out!

HUMILIATION can be the only word to describe Hawks' downfall as they slipped to their heaviest home league for 53 years when they were thrashed by Concord Rangers, writes DAVID RIMMER.

It was the biggest home league loss since September 1956 when Harlow Town crashed 9-2 to Basildon Town, although the side lost 9-0 away to Oxford City in the league in 1976.

Harlow, already without regular keeper Jamie Waite, had two players sent off but were already losing 7-0 when the red cards were produced. Michael Pelley (two fouls) and Joe Clemo (foul and dissent) received second yellow cards on 78 and 87 minutes respectively.

Harlow Tn 0, Concord Rangers 7
Ryman League, division one north

Tuesday's match had been re-arranged from three weeks ago when Concord were leading 2-0 before it was abandoned due to floodlight failure.

Hawks boss Anthony Anstead said: "It feels very deflating. Seventy per cent of our side have let themselves down and have let me down in terms of effort.

"I have to say Concord were excellent. The only positive thing was our supporters kept supporting us so well."

Custodian Waite could not get back to Harlow in time after he had earlier played for the Thailand U-23 side against former French champions Paris St Germain.

He was left a frustrated spectator.

His replacement Nathaniel Elraz made two good saves but generally struggled.

Harlow were also without midfielder James Edgerley (virus).

Concord went ahead on three minutes. Elraz flapped at a cross and Ross Wall fired in.

On seven minutes it was 2-0 as Michael Beggs tucked home after Harlow failed to clear a right-wing cross.

Concord Rangers made it 3-0 on 18 minutes. Danny Heale's free-kick from the right was headed across goal by Kevin Watson and Lyle Taylor fired in.

Elraz did well to keep out an effort from Wall before Taylor rifled in a fourth goal on 38 minutes after slipping past Clemo in the box.

Just before the break, the hardworking Ashley Robinson forced a brilliant diving save from Concord keeper Dale Brightly.

Anstead added: "Ashley was the only player who looked like scoring for us. Too many people did too little."

Taylor made it 5-0 for his hat-trick on 54 minutes, slotting home from eight yards out beating Elraz at the near post.
